

Plant-for-the-Planet

A free, day-long Academy for all youth grades 4th through 12th and their families to make a difference in Climate Change & Recovery

Sunday, October 8, 2017 at Hessel Guild
5400 Blank Rd, Sebastopol, CA 95472
9:00 AM - 2:00 PM

Youth teach other youth to become Climate Justice Ambassadors. They learn:

- the science of Climate Change & Recovery
- how Climate Change impacts people everywhere
- how-to plant trees and why it matters
- how to make effective presentations and influence policy.

Two of the youth who will be leading this Academy are plaintiffs in the Federal Climate Change Lawsuit, Juliana et al vs. U.S. et al., organized by Our Children's Trust. You won't want to miss this Academy.

Since 2007, Plant-for-the-Planet has empowered more than 63,000 children in 54 countries to stop Climate Change. Learn about what Plant-for-the-Planet is doing to make a difference. We have planted more than 15 billion trees so far and want your help!

Parents will participate in a workshop in the morning and are invited back to join their students at 1:00 PM to watch the student presentations and the graduation of the new Climate Justice Ambassadors.

You can reach Plant-for-the-Planet US via email at vergun@alumni.stanford.edu.

See further details and sign-up for this or other local Academies at:

climatechangerecovery.org